In 2015, EBI started planning for its in-house production of e-learning. It established professional relationships with the Association for Talent Development (ATD) to avail training opportunities that would build internal capacities to become certified instructional designers for e-learning. Having obtained those certifications, the team was assigned the task of forming the e-learning function. In February 2018 EBI has launched its E-learning Platform and availed the service of designing E-learning content on demand for all Banks and financial institutions. Since then EBI has had successful projects and cooperation with different banks and other institutions.

The Egyptian Banking Institute (EBI) is now proud to offer a remote learning platform with a variety of +50 off the shelf courses in almost every field including banking, management & leadership, small & medium enterprises and information technology. Not only is remote/e-learning a vastly advanced technological medium, but it also provides you with a great deal of flexibility, allowing you to study at any time from any place at your own convenient speed without worrying about timetables and schedules.

The design and development of EBI e-learning courses depend on the Successive Approximation Model SAM, which is characterized by agility and iteration. While the CCAF Model – Context, Challenge, Activity and Feedback – is used in designing storyboards and flow of learning in relation to course objectives.

EBI delivery method is to avail a SCORM complaint package hosted on EBI Learning Management System for different learners to access at their own pace; i.e. asynchronous learning.

All EBI e-learning courses' production combine elements of media: Text and voiceover, cartooning, animation, info-graphics, recorded simulations and live-recorded videos of subject matter experts. Such elements are combined together in the paths of the storyboard, where each is triggered according to the sequence of the course objectives and learning journey. Many of these steps are followed by short quizzes to also help the learner check his/her level of understanding.

We envision a world where anyone, anywhere can transform their life by accessing the best remote learning experience. We look forward to give access to a library that can enable the learner to find the right courses that cater their needs from our future EBI library of ready to go e-learning courses.
